

STARR FIELDHOUSE RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP

The Starr Fieldhouse Research Fellowships are made possible through a generous donation from the Starr Foundation and IIT's capital campaign match to honor Irv Fieldhouse, who until his death in 2005 was an active member of the IIT-IITRI community for over 40 years. To enhance Mr. Fieldhouse's commitment for developing joint research projects, both fellowships target research that leads to cooperation between IIT and IIT Research Institute (IITRI), Institute for Food Health and Safety (IFSH), Fermilab, or Argonne National Laboratory (ANL).

ELIGIBILITY: IIT students currently enrolled in a Master of Science or Doctoral program. The student must be nominated by an IIT faculty member.

Fellows are required to pursue advanced study and research under faculty guidance; support faculty and their external advisors in specific research projects; and make their own contributions to academe through writing and research.

APPLICATION CHECKLIST:

- 1) Application Form
- 2) Academic Transcripts (copies are acceptable)
- 3) Three (3) Letters of References—each accompanied by a Reference Report Form*
